A Most Valuable Estate

FOR SALE.

THAT beautiful estate, commonly known by the name of MONTOURS' or LONG ISLAND, about five miles below Pittsburgh, in the Ohio river, containing in the whole 1,000 acres, is offered for sale. It is divided into three separate tracts, on each of which there are handsome improvements; the land is of the best quality, well timbered, and not subject to overflow. It is universally esteemed, both as to soil and situation, the finest property in the western country. The proprietors would prefer selling the whole in a body, but to suit purchasers, it may be divided into three tracts.

The terms may be known by applying to Major Isaac Craig on the premises, or to the subscriber, who is agent for the proprietors, at his office in Pittsburgh.

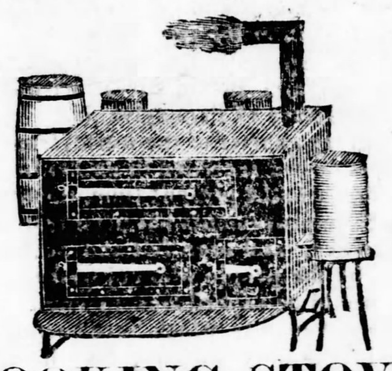
HAVE the pleasure of announcing to their friends and the public generally, that they have again opened their establishment for manufacturing Postly's Patent COOKING STOVES at their old stand, in Second street, two doors from Wood street, where all orders will be attended to.

December 21,

Charles Postly's Patent



COOKING STOVE

OR PORTABLE KITCHENS.

MANUFACTURED and sold by HENRY MILLER & Co in 2d street, two doors from the corner of Wood streets, Pittsburgh.

This Stove with fixtures complete, comprises every necessary article of apparatus for an extensive cooking establishment.

The different sizes are calculated to do the cooking for small or large families, public houses and Steam-boats, and are so extremely simple in their construction as to be managed with ease by a child, twelve or fourteen years of age.

With this Stove may be cooked by baking, roasting, boiling and by steam, a sufficiency of meats, fish, fowls and vegetables, to make a dinner for from [illegible] persons, at the same time may be baked from 1 to 8 loaves of bread.

A wooden vessel containing from twenty to fifty gallons of water, can also be kept boiling, for the purposes of washing, &c. All these are done simultaneously and with one small fire.

The circumstance of these Stoves having got into very general use at the eastward, within 2 or 3 years past, particularly in the cities of New York and Baltimore, with the rapid sale and general approbation they have met with since their first introduction last winter, west of the mountains, are sufficient testimonials of their utility and advantage.

The subscribers having purchased of the patentee the right for making and vending said Stoves in the western country, are ready to execute with punctuality and despatch, all orders at his Manufactory, as above, where also may be had, Cast and Sheet Iron Stoves, suitable for Parlours, Offices, Stores & Bed-rooms, to which boilers may be attached if wanted.

The proprietors to accommodate persons residing in different parts of the country, have opened a store in Main street, Cincinnati, and also appointed agents, as follows—Luther Stephens & Co. Lexington, Ken. Samuel January, Sen. & Co. Maysville, Ken. J. B. Bowles, Louisville, K. Joseph Litton, Nashville, Tenn. James Cochran, Madison, Indiana. Neal & Liggett, St. Louis.

Extract from a letter from Harrisburgh

The investigation is now closed, and in a short time the report of the committee will be made. I have no doubt, but that it will be favourable and honourable to the governor. None that I ever heard speak on this subject, pretend to say that any of the charges have been supported: on the contrary, there is in his conduct as developed by this enquiry, much to praise.

Pennsylvania Legislature.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Wednesday, Jan. 26, 1820.

REPORT OF THE COMMITTEE

ON

ROADS & INLAND NAVIGATION

Mr. Lehman, from the committee on roads and inland navigation, to whom were referred a resolution directing them to report what objects of general improvement ought to be selected for the appropriation of the public money, and also several petitions relative to the internal improvement of the state,

Made Report:

That they are deeply impressed with the conviction of the signal advantages which are conferred upon states by the application of their best resources for the purpose of facilitating and cheapening the transportation of persons and commodities, by means of good roads, bridges, navigable rivers and artificial canals.

Next to moral and intellectual cultivation, the internal improvement of the country, especially demands the liberal patronage and the maturest wisdom of the legislature of Pennsylvania

In every quarter of the world, from the earliest period recorded in authentic history down to the present time, the utility of such improvements has been tested by experience, and been felt and acknowledged by the people who enjoyed them.

It would be superfluous to enumerate the improvements which have been completed and the new projects which, at this moment, the policy of the most enlightened governments, in various parts of the civilized globe, and even in some of the states of our own country are still devising and executing. The benefits, and under existing circumstances, it may be said, the absolute necessity of similar exertions in our own state, are so obvious that examples cannot be necessary to stimulate those into whose hands is, in a material degree committed the destiny of Pennsylvania.

Agriculture, the noblest and best pursuit of our citizens; manufactures; inland and foreign commerce, and even the fine arts: these solid and permanent sources of prosperity and grandeur, are all cherished and enlivened by the facility of exchange, which internal improvements alone can create.

They enable the farmer to bring into cultivation and render rich and productive, lands otherwise barren: to discover and bring into use new mines: they give a value to his timber, which otherwise rots or is burnt: they widen his market, and consequently incite his industry by augmenting the price of all his surplus productions, which he may transport with facility to the place where they are wanted, and receive in exchange the money or the conveniences he may require.

They enable the manufacturer, whose interests have become vitally connected with the prosperity and independence of the country, to bring his fuel and subsistence, and also his raw materials of manufacture to his work shop; and when perfected by industry and art, he can carry them with ease and cheapness to the consumer at home, or to the trader who seeks a foreign market.

The merchant is enabled to distribute his wares, whether domestic or foreign, and is furnished with commodities which are native, or made by the labor and ingenuity of his countrymen, and which by the agency of ships and sailors he conveys to all parts of the habitable globe.—Every work shop and every farm; every man enjoying an income from lands and houses; or engaged in active life and ambitious of bettering his condition; all would partake of the general prosperity produced by a free, easy and cheap communication between the various parts of the state. To these may be added an advantage, arising from facility of intercourse, perhaps paramount to all others: the connexion of all classes, landed, commercial and manufacturing, by the strong ties of interest; giving to one part of the state a dependence upon another, and uniting them by a common concern, binding the people of every county together in a mutual intercourse of good offices, and making Pennsylvania in reality one state, cemented in a social and commercial, as well as a political union.

Your committee, under the assumption that the utility and necessity of internal improvements are incontrovertible; that they form part of the solid basis, upon which the future greatness of Pennsylvania must rest; and that not only one of the primary interests, but the duty and honor of the commonwealth are alike involved in the completion of some of the works already begun, and in the commencement and prosecution of other liberal and enlarged plans of public good, will proceed, with deference, to designate some of the objects, which, in their opinion, are entitled to legislative patronage.

Your committee will premise, that the plan they have adopted, embraces only some of the great leading objects which are of general utility, and excludes all such subjects as in their opinion, are of secondary importance to the community at large, and calculated only to promote the interest of particular sections of the state, or to divert the inland trade of Pennsylvania, that great element of our prosperity, into neighboring states. The peculiar situation of the state at this period, threatened on all sides by vigilant and powerful rivals, demands in the opinion of some members of the committee, a temporary neglect of many petitions asking for aid to private and sectional objects. The good sense and patriotism of the petitioners will perceive the propriety at this time of sacrificing something at the altar of public good. The time it is hoped will soon arrive, when it will be more convenient for the government to pay due regard to the interest of particular neighborhoods, without overlooking the great and more imperious interests of the commonwealth.

The first and most important object, in the opinion of your committee, is the completion of the projected canal between the rivers Susquehanna and Schuylkill, by uniting the waters of the Tulpehocken a branch of the Schuylkill, with the waters of the Swatara and Quitapahilla, streams which empty into the Susquehanna. This object is the more interesting to your committee, when they contemplate the numerous rivers of Pennsylvania, flowing in all directions, and presenting but few formidable impediments to an extensive inland navigation. The company incorporated for the accomplishment of this great work, which will unite by a water carriage the Delaware with the Susquehanna, are authorised to raise by subscription the sum of five hundred thousand dollars; which, it has been computed, would with the property they already possess, be adequate, or nearly so, to the completion of this grand object, so ultimately connected with the prosperity of every portion of the state. The proceeds of a lottery are by law pledged for the payment of the interest upon this sum; but owing to the pecuniar difficulties of the times, the necessary subscriptions have not been made although the lottery, under proper management, will produce a sum nearly equal to the interest of the money to be borrowed. To secure the prompt completion of this canal, your committee have annexed a section to the bill accompanying this report, pledging a part of the auction duties paid in the city of Philadelphia, to make up the deficiency of interest (which in the opinion of your committee can never exceed a few thousand dollars a year) to the new subscribers of the capital stock of the company, for the period of twenty years; provided the profits of the lottery and the tolls which may be collected for the use of the canal should be found inadequate. They have also introduced a section into the bill connected with the report, authorising a subscription on the part of the state of fifty thousand dollars, towards the capital stock of the company.

For detailed information respecting the practicability and utility of this canal, the committee beg leave to refer to a report of a committee to be found in page 390, of the Journals of last session. They will here only observe that this canal, if completed, will open a new market for all the heavy commodities produced on or near the extensive waters of the Susquehana, & will shorten the land carriage one hundred miles between the cities of Pittsburgh and Philadelphia; which, if the great roads are made free of toll, will without any further progress in inland navigation, forever secure to our state, the chief part of the trade with 'the empires' rising in the west. A trade, which in its progress and effects, gives a new spring to every branch of useful industry, cherishing the more necessary arts of agriculture, manufactures, and commerce, as well as the fine arts, which adorn and illustrate a state, and which cannot fail to raise Pennsylvania to her former proud rank among the states of the Union.

The other objects embraced in the bill, and in aid of which appropriations are made, are:

1st. The great turnpike, on the southern route, from the Susquehanna to the city of Pittsburgh.

2d. The improvement of the navigation of the river Ohio, and some of its branches.

3d. The improvement of the navigation of the river Susquehanna.

4th. The improvement of the navigation of the river Delaware.

5th. Some of the sections of the great middle or northern turnpike road, extending from Harrisburgh through Huntingdon, Lewiston, Alexandria and Ebensburg to the city of Pittsburgh.

6th. The great road, in part completed, which is to extend from Berwick, on the Susquehanna, to Newtown or Elmira, in the state of New-York, and which will bring much of the produce, as well as many of the cattle of the western parts of New-York into the state of Pennsylvania. Berwick, on the Susquehanna, being within about 25 miles of the highest navigable waters of the Schoylkill, and the whole distance from Berwick to Newtown in New-York, is only 78 miles; thus enabling us to connect the central counties of New-York with the metropolis of Pennsylvania, by a land carriage of about 100 miles.

7th. The ridge road, and Perkiomen and Reading turnpike. The companies incorporated for making these roads are in a peculiarly distressed condition, and the roads and parts of the great northern road, from Harrisburgh to Philadelphia and may be considered as the eastern part of the great northern road, between the Delaware and the Ohio.

8th. The Philadelphia and Great Bend turnpike, the Bridgewater, and Wilkesbarre Bridge. These are parts of the great line of communication between the city of Philadelphia and the northern counties of the state, lying between the Susquehannah & the Delaware. Without the prompt completion of these roads, the trade of that extensive tract of country, must necessarily be directed into the state of New-York.

All the objects for which appropriations to the amount of three hundred and ten thousand dollars, are here recommended, are, 1st. great and leading roads already laid out, and some of which are only in part finished, and the completion of which will conduce to the advantage of the whole commonwealth. 2d. The three principal rivers, the improvement of the navigation of which, is identified with the interests of every portion of the State. And 3d. The Union canal. Towards this object, there are not only fifty thousand dollars to be subscribed on the part of the state, but the second section of the bill, which secures the payment of interest to the new individual subscribers, for the period of twenty years, will bring into circulation four hundred and fifty thousand dollars from the purses of rich individuals, and incorporated companies; so that the bill provides for the application of seven hundred and sixty thousand dollars, towards the internal improvement of the state

Your committee feel the greatest confidence, in recommending to the consideration of the house, the bill annexed to this report; and not only because it is calculated to increase that branch of commerce, which the most sagacious political economists, with one voice, acknowledge to be the greatest and most important, that is, the commerce which is carried on between the inhabitants of the town and those of the country, and which acts as a vivifying principle to agriculture and manufactures, but because the present condition of the state of Pennsylvania seems to demand an extraordinary expenditure on the part of the government.

In the present distressed condition of a large portion of our citizens, who are without employment, owing to the depressed state of foreign commerce, and domestic manufactures and a variety of other causes, a liberal appropriation will give them occupation and relief; and at the same time enable them, by their labour, to confer solid and permanent advantages upon the community.

In the opinion of your committee, nothing is better adapted to give practical & effectual relief to the distress existing among certain classes in this state, in common with all other states in the Union. Nothing is better adapted to answer the voice, or rather the cries of the people, and to carry comfort and happiness to the hearts of the afflicted; and they with confidence will add, that nothing is more sure to secure the approbation and please our constituents, than a liberal and extensive application of the resources of the state, towards its internal improvement: thus creating easy and cheap communications, by expending money among our citizens: a policy which has a retributory operation, independent of the work produced, maintaining, relieving and enriching individuals, who are parts of our own family.

Your committee will take the liberty of suggesting another important consideration, which in their opinion, ought to induce the legislature at this moment to extend a fostering hand to the objects embraced in the bill. This consideration arises from the laudable efforts of active, and circumspect neighboring and rival states, to complete works, which (unless they are counteracted by plans of our own, somewhat assimilated to theirs) will divert our growing inland trade, from its present channel through the state of Pennsylvania; a state which until within a few years, has been considered as 'the natural avenue from the shores of the Atlantic, to the vast regions of the western territory.'

In the judgment of your committee, every nerve should be strained, and every resource called into action, to secure the immense benefits which must hereafter accrue to the commonwealth, by the preservation of this interior trade: a trade which the experience of all flourishing states, proves to be even more productive than foreign trade, and in the contemplation of which, in the language of one of our earliest and most enlightened patriots, now no more, they will say 'imagination can hardly paint the magnitude of the scene which demands our industry, nor hope exaggerate the richness of the reward which solicits our enjoyment.' If heedless of these enjoyments, a parsimonious policy, incompatible with our true interests, should unfortunately prevail: if our funds are hoarded, instead of being expended in the encouragement of works, which would give new life and energy to the various branches of productive industry; this great state, blessed by Providence with natural advantages beyond any other state in the union, and only wanting the addition of 'art to nature, of labor to our natural means,' must be checked in her career of prosperity and grandeur; more politic neighbors, will continue to drain her of the industrious and useful part of her population; a large portion of her lands will continue unimproved and unsettled; and as capital always emigrates to where it finds the most profitable employment, the wealth of her metropolis and with it the industry it supports, will be transferred to Baltimore and New York, and the now copious and perenial stream of treasure flowing from the city of Philadelphia, into the reservoir of the state (and which, if a wise policy is pursued, will hereafter become susceptible of augmentation beyond the wants of a prudent government) will be lessened in proportion to the diminution of the sources from which it flows.

One additional consideration, the committee will present to the view of the house, which is more particularly applicable to the policy of constructing water conveyances in addition to good roads and bridges. It is obvious that by the improved method adopted upon the Schuylkill, and elsewhere, of rendering rivers navigable by means of dams and locks, water powers will be created in various parts of the state, which will operate as labor saving machines, and enable Pennsylvania the more easily to enjoy the benefit arising from the establishment of manufactures, and enter into a successful competition with foreigners.

It is obvious that the resources of the state, even without the imposition of taxes, are fully adequate to accomplish the noblest objects in relation to internal improvements, as well as to the promotion of education, the patronage of science, and of all the other ends of government, which require pecuniary aid. Your committee therefore, will not consume the time of the house, in expatiating upon this point: such an examination also, falls more particularly within the sphere allotted to another committee. They will however, observe that the bank stock of the government, at its present reduced market or exchangeable value, is equal to two millions two hundred thousand dollars; and that the whole property of the government (without taking into view the wealth of the people, which may be truly called the wealth of the government) after deducting all debts, cannot be estimated at less than five millions of dollars, and in the opinion of many judicious persons, the amount is much greater, taking into view the sum due from arrearages on unpatented lands, the amount of which is not precisely ascertained.

But such is the fortunate condition of the government, in relation to its finances, that for the accomplishment of every present object, embraced by an enlightened policy, it is not absolutely necessary to disturb this accumulated treasure. If the legislature should deem it inexpedient to part with any of the existing funds, if it is thought unwise to provide for the gradual recovery of arrearges due for unpatented lands, it may safely borrow two millions of dollars, the whole of which might in the opinion of your committee, be within two or three years judiciously expended, and which could now be procured at less than the ordinary interest, by the creation of a funded debt; and the surplus of the ordinary income over the ordinary expenditure (reasoning from an average number of past years) may be converted into a sinking fund, which in about twenty years, would be adequate to the payment of the interest and the redemption of the principal. Your committee, therefore, will with defference, take this opportunity of recommending the adoption of a resolution now on the table of the house, instructing the committee of ways and means to introduce a bill, authorizing the governor to obtain money on loan. They will further observe that it should never be lost sight of, that the roads, bridges and water conveyances, created by a judicious expenditure of public money, assisted by individual enterprize, become themselves a productive state capital, from which immense monied returns may be confidently expected, whenever easiness and cheapness of carriage from remote quarters, increase the quantity of goods for transportation.

Your committee, therefore urgently recommend the sanction of the house, to the bill annexed to this report, which they regard only as a part of this liberal and enlarged plan, which the wisdom of this or the next legislature may devise, and the execution of which will be pregnan with every blessing—will cause Pennsylvania to advance with 'gigantic strides' to prosperity and greatness, and which is imperiously required by the duty and honor, as well as the interest of the state.

PITTSBURGH.

Friday, Feb. 11, 1820.

We have received a copy of the annual report of the Pittsburgh Sabbath School Association, which we regret we cannot insert agreeably to the request of the Directors, in consequence of its length, as it would occupy the room which at this interesting season, we are obliged to devote to other purposes. We are happy however, to call the public attention as far as this brief notice can have the influence, to this useful and praiseworthy Institution. Its operations have been so modestly conducted that, although we knew of it's existence, and applauded its object we were not aware, until we perused this report, of the extent to which it had been carried. Within the last two years it appears that hundreds of indigent persons mostly children, have been reclaimed from ignorance, taught to read and write, and instructed in the first principles of religion. This has been accomplished at a very trifling expense; so trifling indeed, as to be entirely unworthy of being placed in competition with the incalculable benefits which have accrued to society. The directors and teachers deserve as much credit for their rigid economy as for the zeal and industry which they have displayed in fostering this institution. We are authorised to state that our citizens will be called on shortly to contribute their mites towards paying the expenses of the current year, and that any sum, however small, will be gratefully received.

Mr. GARNER we perceive, intends to give us another Concert on Monday evening next. Those who were so fortunate as to hear him at his last exhibition, will no doubt be delighted in again having the opportunity of enjoying so delicious a repast, and they who have not heard him have a pleasure to come. He has been pronounced in Philadelphia to use the language of one of their newspapers, to be "equal if not superior to the celebrated Phillips," and although we have not had the pleasure of hearing the latter gentleman, we should be inclined, from what we have witnessed of Mr. Garner's powers, to think this praise not too high. We therefore introduce his name again to our readers, for the purpose of affording them an opportunity of partaking in a delightful and innocent recreation, and of endeavoring to procure for this respectable stranger, that encouragement which his talents so richly merit.

SIXTEEN PIRATES CONDEMNED.

We have seen a letter from New-Orleans, dated the 1st January, which states that on the 30th December, Judge Hall, of the United States District Court, pronounced sentence of death on the sixteen pirates taken at Barrataria some time since, by captain Loomis. To prevent any attempt to rescue them from the hands of justice, the military turned out to guard them. They are to be hanged on the 27th of next May, unless pardoned by the President. After the judge had finished pronouncing sentence upon the hardened wretches, several of them cried out, in open court, "Murder the G—d;" and in no respect did they appear to be in the least affected. The letter adds, there is a patrol kept up by the citizens every night, to prevent any conspiracy which it is feared may be formed, to effect their escape.

N. Y. Evening Post.

PIRACY.

The schr. Green, captain Young which arrived at this port on Tuesday last, was boarded off Aux Cayes by an open boat, from an armed schooner, which lay at anchor close in with the land, and had come into Jacquemel while the Green was taking in ballast at that port. The boat was manned by three white men and six blacks—one of the men was called captain, and was supposed by captain Young to be American; one of the others a Frenchman, and the other a Swede. They immediately proceeded to search the vessel in expectation of finding money, which they said they knew was taken on board at Jacquemel; and threatened the captain if he did not inform them where the money was secreted, that they would hang him up to the yard arm. After heaving about the ballast for some time in the hold, they proceeded to the cabin, took out all the furniture, tore open all the letters, (a number being on board for merchants in different parts of the United States,) took away all the cars, together with the captain's watch, notwithstanding it was the only time piece that was on board the vessel, and committed every useless depredation and insult, frequently presenting a pistol to the breast of captain Young, threatning to shoot him; attempting to bribe the crew with an offer of half the money if they would inform where it was. Capt. Young is of opinion that it was their intention to have run the vessel on shore, and throw the ballast out; and he attributes their not doing so, to their finding forty dollars, which were secreted in a barrel of flour, and the belief expressed by the person who passed for their commander, that there was no more money on board. To the courage of captain Young, and the fidelity of his crew, we attribute entirely the preservation of the money that was on board, the proceeds of the outward cargo.

JANUARY 24.

Respecting the Spanish Treaty.

Mr. Floyd, of Va. submitted for consideration the following resolution:

"Resolved, That the President of the United States be requested to cause to be communicated to this house, if in his opinion consistent with the public good, whatsoever information he may possess, relative to the extent of territory which the instructions of the Minister Plenipotentiary of His Catholic Majesty authorized him to cede to the U. States in his negociation with the Secretary of State, which resulted in the treaty of 22d February last, and likewise at what period he obtained that information."

Mr. F. said that he had been induced to submit this resolution to obtain the information required, as important, upon a subject of great consequence to the nation at this time. It was predicated upon an expression in the letter of the Secretary of State to our Minister, bearing date the 18th August, 1819, wherein, he says—"It is too well known, and the Spanish government dare not deny it, that Mr. Onis's last instructions authorized him to cede to the United States much more territory than he did." Now, sir, as the treaty has not been confirmed by Spain, and we are called upon to enforce the friendly stipulations of that treaty, it is peculiarly proper to have all the information which was possessed at the time of the negociation.

In reply to an objection which was subsequently made to the resolve, that a call, for that kind of information might have injurious consequences, Mr. F. said, certainly no injury can result, as the resolution does not require any thing to be communicated which it would be improper to devulge—but, if that information were improper to be made public, cannot the representives of the people of the United States be intrusted with that transaction? For his part, he had consulted none, and thought the information necessary. Surely it could not be improper to communicate to this house, Mr. F. said, that which the Secretary of State had said the Spanish government "dare not deny."

This motion gave rise to a short debate, in the course of which the adoption of it was opposed by Mr Lowndes Mr. Sergeant, Mr. Holmes, Mr. Taylor, Mr. Rhea, and Mr. Hill, on the ground, generally, that the President had communicated to Congress, at the commencement of the session, on the subject of Spanish affairs, all the information which he deemed important to the public interest, and which, in his opinion, it was not inconsistent with that interest at present to communicate; that the conduct of negociations have been given by the constitution to the Executive, and also the aushority to communicate to Congress, from time to time, information of the state of the Union, it was to be presumed the President had, in the performance of that duty, communicated all that was in his opinion proper to be communicated, respecting our relations with Spain; and that, as we have yet a Minister at Madrid, and matters were not finally adjusted with that power, the disclosure of such particulars as were required, if made, might have a prejudicial effect on the questions pending between the two countries, &c.

The proposition was supported by the mover, and by Mr. Johnson of Va. and Mr. Randolph, for the general reasons assigned by the mover, and for the reason, additionally, that the President had, by his communication to both Houses of Congress, at the commencement of the session, earnestly recommended the subject of the state of our affairs with Spain, to the attention of Congress, and indeed expressly submitted to them whether or not the provisons of the Treaty should be carried into effect independently of the consent of Spain, &c.

On suggestion of Mr. Sergeant, the resolve was so amended, by consent of the mover, as to request the President, instead of instructing the Secretary of State, (as at first offered,) if in his opinion, it should be expedient, to cause the required information to be laid before the House—the objection being to leaving a compliance with an order from the house discretionary with any officer of the government subordinate to the highest in authority.

The question being taken on agreeing to the resolution thus amended, it was decided in the negative. Ayes 67; noes 88.

THE MISSOURI QUESTION.

The order of the day on the Missouri bill being announced.

Mr. Foot, of Connecticut, moved the postponement of the order of the day to this day week. His object was in mean time to consider, in the hope of its adoption, a proposition for the prohibition, of the further introduction of slavery west of the Mississippi.

The proposed postponement was opposed by Mr Edwards & Mr. Lowndes, on the grounds that it would only serve to procrastinate the interchange of opinions on the question now fairly before the house, which, whatever else was done, would certainly take place and could not be prevented. Mr. Edwards was opposed to any prohibition whatever, of the nature proposed, or in the way of compromise.

The motion to postpone was negatived, and the house again resolved itself into a committee of the whole, Mr. Baldwin in the chair, on the bill for authorising the people of Missouri to form a constitution. &c.—Mr. Taylor's motion to amend the bill by imposing a restriction on slavery, being under consideration—

Mr. Taylor, of New-York, delivered a speech in support of his motion, which occupied about two hours.

Mr. Holmes of Massachusetts followed, and spoke some time against the right of Congress to imposed the restriction. Before Mr. H. had concluded he gave way for a motion for the committee to rise, and

The committee rose, obtained leave to sit again; and

The house adjourned.

COURT MARTIAL.

A letter from Washington dated Jan. 20, to the Editor of the New York Evening Post, mentions, that 'Colonel King has been found guilty of the charge preferred against him for issuing the order to shoot deserters in Florida. He was also found guilty of other charges, and has been sentenced by the court martial to be suspended from his pay and command, for the period of five years. The sentence has been transmitted by Gen. Jackson to the President—it is not known whether it has been yet confirmed.'

Yellow Stone Expedition.

By a report made to Congress, it appears that no additional expense will be incurred in consequence of this expedition, and it is even "calculated that the army will be less expensive, thus employed, than if it had remained inactive in garrison."—West. Monitor.

Mobbing, says an Ohio paper, has become quit common in Missouri. In St. Louis a mob rose, broke open the jail, and liberated eight prisoners.—A camp-meeting of the Methodist Church was attempted to be held at Cape Girardeau—but before it was organized, a mob of laveholders appeared, drove the preachers from their stands and dispersed the meeting. These scenes are permitted to pass without an attempt to punish the perpetrators.

On the 21st ult. the Patapsco Cotton Factory, near Baltimore, with its contents, were consumed by fire!—loss estimated at $200,000. By the destruction of this factory, it is said, 27 poor families are deprived of the means of subsistence, among those are 16 widows and more than 100 children.

A society has been formed in Boston, for the purpose of encouraging domestic manufactures; at a meeting, Gen. John P. Boyd, was chosen Chairman, and col. Thaddeus Page, Secretary. The number of names reported of persons who had already subscribed the papers "to purchase no article of clothing whether hats, coats, boots or pantaloons, for one year, except such as are of American manufacture," amounts to about three hundred. A committee was chosen to prepare printed subscription papers: and a committee of two from each of the wards in Boston, to present the same for the signature of their fellow citizens, with authority to augment the committee in their respective wards to such a number as they may deem expedient; also a committee of seven, to make all necessary inquiry, and report samples and prices of American cloths, contrasted with European of the same costs and fabrics, at the adjourned meeting, to be holden at the same place, on Friday evening, the 4th February next, and to be kept in possession for the information of the associates.

Con. Mirror.

A German journal (the Polivei Fama) states that in 1512, four persons were arrested and executed, in a city in the north of Germany having been convicted of robbing 631 churches, and committing 70 murders. Unfortunately, previous to their arrest, the judges deceived by probabilities, and perjured witnesses, had condemned and executed, as guilty of the above crimes, 119 persons; namely, 3 priests, 11 sacristans, 80 men and 18 women! As surely, adds the Journalist had the institution of the jury existed at that period, the judges would not have had to reproach themselves with these 119 judicial murders.

On the 26th ult. a man calling himself Francis Wilson, was committed to the jail of this county, charged with having stolen a case of pistols and various articles of clothing, at or near Pittsburgh. This morning he nearly effected his escape by breaking a hole through the wall of our poor unfortunate jail. From papers found in his possession, his name appears to be Francis Burr Witson, formerly of New-York, a cabinet-maker by trade, 5 feet 7 or 8 inches high and fair plexion.

From the circumstance of his attempting to break jail, it is probable he has been guilty of the above or some other offence, and this note is published for the purpose of obtaining some information respecting him. Bedford Gaz.

Insolvent Law.

SUPPLEMENT to the act, entitled "An act, for the relief of Insolvent Debtors.

SECT. 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, in General Assembly met, and it is hereby enacted by the authority of the same, That from and after the passing of this act, any debtor may apply in term time, by petition in writing, for the benefit of the existing insolvent laws of this commonwealth; to the judges of the court of common pleas of the county where such debtor resides, and such petitioner shall be entitled to the same rights and privileges, and the same proceeding shall be had under the said insolvent laws, as though he was in actual confinement in one of the goals of this commonwealth on mesne or final process, as the time of such application. Provided always, That such debtor shall have presided within such county at least six months immediately preceding such application.

SECT. 2. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any such debtor as aforesaid shall, in vacation, be arrested in execution, he may apply by petition to the president or any one of the associate judges of the said court of common pleas for the county in which such debtor is arrested, to give bond to the plaintiff or plaintiffs at whose suit he is arrested, in such penalty, and with such security, as shall be directed and approved of by the said judge, conditioned that the debtor shall appear before the said court of common pleas at the next term, and then and there remain and abide the final order of the said court to be made during such term, and surrender himself to prison, in case on his said appearance he shall not comply with all things required by law to procure his discharge, and on such bond being given the same proceedings shall be had as though the application had been made in term time, under the first section of this act, and the said judges shall give an order to the sheriff, jailor or keeper of the prison, to discharge the said debtor, and such sheriff, jailor or keeper are hereby required, on payment of costs and jailfees by such debtor, to discharge and orthwith set him at liberty.

SECT 3. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That any sheriff, jailor or keeper of any prison, performing the duties of his office in pursuance of this act, may make return of the said order of the said judge to the process, which said return shall be good and effectual to all intents and purposes.

SECT, 4. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any debtor shall apply for the benefit of this act, to any other court, than the court of common pleas of the county where such debtor resides at the time of such application, such petitioner shall be only discharged and exonerated from arrest and imprisonment from the debt or debts of the plaintiff or plaintiffs who held such petitioner under arrest at the time of such application, and he shall remain liable to arrest and imprisonment at the suit of any other of his creditors, as if he had not applied for the benefit of said insolvent laws. Provided, That nothing herein contained shall be construed to prevent any debtor from making application for the benefit of the laws heretofore enacted for the relief of insolvent debtors.

SECT. 5. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That if any debtor petitioning for the benefit for the insolvent laws of this commonwealth, shall fraudulently collude or contrive with any person or persons to conceal any part of his estate, effects, or credits, or shall fraudulently conceal or convey the same for the use of himself, family or friends, such debtor, on conviction thereof before the proper court, shall undergo servitude at hard labor for a term not less than one, nor more than seven years, to be fed, clothed and treated as in such like cases is directed by the laws of this commonwealth.

SECT. 6. And be it further enacted by the authority aforesaid, That the provisions of this act shall not extend to discharge or relieve any delinquent from any fine whatsoever set or imposed in any criminal prosecution.

I do hereby certify, that the foregoing is a true copy of an act of the General Assembly of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, passed by both Houses of the Legislature, and approved and signed by the Governor this day,

Witness my hand, this 29th day of January, A. D. 1820. FR. R. SHUNK, Clerk.

N. RICHARDSON.

Pittsburgh, March 23.

To Emigrants.

HAVING associated myself with a considerable company for the purpose of settling a new place in the state of Illinois, opposite the mouth of White river and Prairie, at the foot of the Grand Rapids of the Wabash, (MOUNT CARMEL) with an intention to remove to it, as soon as practicable, I have contracted for the making and burning of 150,000 brick, which I wish put up next season into buildings, and the Bricklayer's and carpenter's work undertaken conjointly, the plaistering and whitewashing included. Lands adjoining the Town, and town lots, at cash prices, and cash, a proportion of each will be given in payment when the work is completed.

Having entered lands for the accommodation of settlers favourable to the views of the settlement, a considerable body adjoining the settlement and town lands, divided into lots of from 10 to 100 and 160 acres each may be had at the Congress prices, with the exception of the interest on the money paid, and a small advance to defray expences, &c.

I wish to employ some persons to enclose or clear lands for me, for which I will pay in lands at cash prices. I have a body of open and timbered lands, that I would lease from 5 to 10 years on advantageous terms to emigrants unable to purchase. A convenient farm to let, by an early application to the Agent may be had.

A canal for boats and water works around the Grand Rapids of the Wabash, a company is forming to commence opening next season, that will afford employment for labourers, and no inconsiderable inducement to capitalist to invest their funds in the establishment. Considerable encouragement and aid have already been tendered for that purpose by emigrants from the Eastern States. The river is open for navigation from this place to New-Orleans all the year.

Application may be made to WM. BEAUCHAMP, the Agent for the establishment, residing in Mount Carmel, or to the subscriber, residing at present in New-port. None need apply but moral characters.

TOWN OF AMERICA.

THE undersigned, owner of a large number of squares, half squares, and lots in the above town, and of about five hundred acres of land adjoining to it, proposes to sell to actual settlers, any number of lots, not exceeding one hundred; and several out lots of twenty acres each, on terms highly calculated to promote the interest of the purchasers. He is also authorized to sell on liberal terms and in small tracts, seven thousand acres of excellent land, lying about the Town and in its immediate neighborhood.

This town is situated in the fork of the Ohio and Mississippi, on the bank of the former, and on the first piece of high ground above their junction.

No person of any reflection has ever looked upon a map of North America without being struck with the mighty confluence of water which is exhibited at the junction of the Ohio and Mississippi: and the natural sentiment that a great city must grow up at that point has only been checked by the apprehension that the place was annually inundated. The apprehension was incorrect. The town scite and the back country are free from inundation, and both are now settled and are constantly increasing in population. The town has been selected for the seat of Justice for the county of Alexander in which it is situated, and both the county and circuit courts are, and will be held there. The neighboring country is well settled, not by a detached population, but by connected settlements spreading into the interior of the state of Illinois.

The mind is therefore free to expatiate upon the advantages of this situation, and the undersigned can leave it to any man of sense and candor to say whether any point upon our continent has ever presented a fairer prospect of a greater inland commercial city?

Situated on the first high ground above the confluence of the noblest streams in America—at a point from which large steam boats can at all times descend to New Orleans—with a rich back country to support it—and a numerous population now covering the adjacent country, and it is difficult to assign a reason why this town should not in a few years rank with the first in America.

Besides its water communications it may reasonably count upon the advantage of seeing pass through it the great road which will be required to facilitate the intercourse between the Upper and the Lower Mississippi. Authentic information authorizes the assertion that the country south of the Ohio is entirely practicable for a road, which can be opened across the west ends of Kentucky and Tennessee through the late Chickasaw purchase and lead to New Orleans over a direct route parallel to the course of the Mississippi

The undersigned will be upon the spot to sell to actual settlers during the balance of the winter and spring months. He prefers to sell upon the spot, when purchasers can see with their own eyes the advantages of the situation, and therefore will be present at a time when the revival of commerce upon the river and the passing of steam boats will make it convenient for all those to visit the place and examine it for themselves who may wish to become interested in it.

He is also authorised to say that the proprietors, or a part of them, will sell at auction, on the ground, on the third Monday in April next, being the first day of the Circuit court, ONE HUNDRED LOTS; one third of the purchase money to be paid in hand, one third in six, and one in twelve months, to raise a fund for improving the place, to which the whole proceeds of the 100 lots will be applied.

HENRY W. CONWAY.

St. Louis, Dec. 4, 1819——Jan72m.

Notice,

TO all whom it concerns, that we the subscribers gave our notes to GARRET GUEST, on the first day of November 1819; the first payable on the first day of February 1820, for four hundred dollars—the other, for three hundred dollars, due in twelve months from the 1st November, 1819, for which we have received no value We therefore caution all persons not to receive the said Notes on our credit, as we will not pay them unless compelled by law.

REFERENCES.

The subscribers were appointed trustees of a Seminary for the education of Young Ladies, at the village of Harmonie, Butler county, Pennsylvania, which has been under the superintendance of Mr. Frederick Eckstein, assisted by Mrs. Eckstein for about two years. They have occassionally attended the public examinations of the pupils in Reading, Writing, Arithmetic, Grammar, History Geography, Natural Philosophy, the French Language, and Drawing in all its branches. Mr Eckstein intending shortly to remove from Harmonie, with the intention of being employed in the education of youth, wherever he can be useful, and can receive suitable patronage. The subscribers have no hesitation in testifying their approbation of his merit as a teacher, from the progress of the Young Ladies at Harmonie, in the various branches above mentioned. The strictest attention appears to have been shown by him to their morals & manners, which was evidenced by the decorum and behaviour of the young ladies under his care. 11th Aug. 1819.
